CLEARING THE WAY FOR THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Mr. Cox, from the foreign relations committee, reported back a joint resolution for the abrogation of the Clayton Bulwer treaty, as a unanimous report. It was referred to the committee of the whole.

DEBATE IN HOUSE ON MARSHALS BILL.

The house considered the special deficiency bill and a sharp discussion ensued on the senate amendment, respecting the appointment of special deputy marshals.

Mr. Reed, of Maine, sarcastically reviewed the Potter committee which had concluded in 2,700 pages of testimony that Hayes had not played the knave and Tilden had.

Mr. McMahon was amused that the republicans had obstructed the business two days to listen to such a speech as that of Reed's.

Mr. Garfield said the characteristic of the democratic party was displaying itself in coercing somebody. He had yet to learn that the country was so far lost in anarchy that a democrat could not trust a republican or a republican a democrat to help carry on a fair election law. He would be glad to see all the parties meet at the ballot box and unite in law and justice to enforce free, equal, national elections everywhere. (Applause.)

Mr. Keifer regarded the amendment as vicious even as an independent proposition which gives both political parties representation among the deputy marshals.

This amendment was finally agreed to, most of the remaining senate amendments to this general deficiency bill now agreed to. The house will probably finish the consideration of this bill to-morrow.

SPOFFORD KELLOGG.

The Spofford-Kellogg report, having at last been brought before the senate for action, it once more became a prominent topic of conversation in Washington and seems likely to attract a large share of public attention for a very considerable period. There are different opinions as to the time the consideration of the case will consume, but in regard to its final disposition, the best informed believe the resolution to oust Kellogg will be defeated. It is said and with good show of authority, there are at least eight or ten democratic senators who will hold that the case is res adjudicata and will so vote. When the republicans in the last congress attempted to reopen the Butler case every democrat voted against it on the ground that it had already been settled and Kellogg's title to his seat is in this respect even stronger than Butler's, for Butler was admitted on a single motion that he be sworn in, whereas the resolution under which Kellogg was admitted declared explicitly that he was lawfully entitled to his seat upon the merits of the case. Butler and Kellogg were sworn in at the same time. There are democratic senators, too, who maintain that Butler and Kellogg were admitted on a compromise between the republicans and democrats, and that the latter would be guilty of a breach of faith in voting to put Kellogg out. The indications are that there are enough democrats who believe in the doctrine of res adjudicata who hold that good faith binds them to sustain Kellogg, to defeat the resolution to oust him.

VARIOUS MATTERS.

The Inter Ocean's Washington special says the house is rapidly approaching adjournment which now may occur the last of May.

Mr. Randall expects it not improbable the president will veto immediately the deficiency bill which unconstitutionally restricts the executive power and has other legislation objectionable to the president.

A colored woman believed to be 117 years old died here yesterday. She has been a pensioner sixty years. Her husband was a sailor in the war of 1812.

The secretary of war doubtless intends to remove Schofield after the Whittaker trial.

The Star this evening asserts the investigation of recent alleged congressional railroad speculations is imminent, and the prospects are fair for another Credit Mobilier.

Presidential.

SHERMAN CONTROLS OHIO.

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Gen. Beatty admits that Sherman's friends will control the coming state convention while charging that the result is due to the effects of moneyed corporations. Blaine's friends claim 140 votes already heard from.

GEORGIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, April 23. The republican convention was all morning discussing the appointment of delegates to Chicago. It is evident Blaine will get a majority of the delegation with six or eight votes for Sherman. Grant may have two votes. The convention is noisy and excited.

ATLANTA, April 23.—The republican convention passed a resolution condemning the outrage on Cadet Whittaker and calling on the administration to fully protect the colored cadets. The selection of delegates to the Chicago convention was the occasion of much wrangling and fierce debate. The Grant men rallied and secured more strength on the delegation than they hoped for yesterday.

Fourteen colored delegates were chosen. W. A. Pledger, colored, was put at the head of the state central committee, and that committee was empowered to nominate electors at large. The district electors and congressmen will be nominated by the district convention. The Grant men claim twelve delegates, but the general estimate is 8 for Blaine, 8 for Sherman, and 6 for Grant. Various rumors are circulated about the probable chances in the delegation but the anti-Grant men are confident they have gained a decided victory. Resolutions that the delegates go uninstructed and consult the best interests of the party were passed.

VIRGINIA REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

STANTON, April 23. The republican convention after a long and heated discussion on a motion to recommit the resolution was lost by a decided viva voce vote, and one a. m. a motion was made by the straight outs to adjourn till to-morrow. It was carried by a majority of four.

STANTON, April 23.—The republican convention in a test vote shows the straight outs to have 69 votes and readjusters 61. A resolution was adopted pledging the support to the Chicago nominee. It was also voted to select electors now, but this caused debate and for a long time there was wrangling and the prospects of fights between the members which were disgraceful in the extreme, and the aid of the police was necessary to preserve order.

BLAINE AND HENDRICKS.

CHICAGO, April 23.—The Journal's Washington special says Blaine is much annoyed at the resolution of the Virginia convention, asking him to accept the vice-presidency. He characterizes the request as ridiculous. There is reason to believe that Gorham and Cameron drafted the resolution.

The Blaine club claims six Ohio congressional districts for Blaine.

The Journal's interview with Hendricks drew from him the assertion that he would, under no circumstances, accept the nomination for the vice presidency.

OREGON'S REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21. A Portland dispatch says that the state republican convention convened at 11 o'clock to day at Turner Hall. It was called to order by David Freeman, chairman of the state central committee.

J. C. Peebles, of Marcen county, was elected temporary chairman. A committee on credentials, consisting of one delegate from each county, was appointed. A recess was then taken until 1 o'clock p. m. There are one hundred and sixty three votes in the convention, and but few proxies. The delegates are the best men in the republican party of the state. A large number of the prominent republicans from different portions of the state are in attendance. An unusual degree of interest is manifested, although there is every reason to predict harmonious action.

Burning of Twenty-eight Cars.

CHICAGO, April 23.—At 2.30 this morning in the midst of a terrific storm of thunder and rain, the south side street railway barns caught fire by an unknown cause, by some believed to be a stroke of lightning and in forty minutes the main building was gutted. Twenty-eight cars were destroyed and a considerable amount of feed and implements burned. All the horses, 317 in number, were saved. The loss is estimated at $50,000, partly insured.

Result of the New York Disaster.

NEW YORK, April 23.—About 80 per cent. of the art collection in the Madison Square Garden has been recovered and not much damaged. Only ten or twelve pictures are entirely destroyed. There were four victims in all.

Shooting of De Young.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 23. Chas. De Young was shot and killed at 7.30 this evening by J. M. Kalloch, son of Rev. J. S. Kallock, in the Chronicle office.

Whittaker Investigation.

WEST POINT, April 23. Squire Van Buren testified that on April 18th John Dutcher told him that Whittaker had to "cave" before long. He had heard that Burnett said of Whittaker: "If the damn black cuss doesn't leave, I will put him off some way."

Forest Fires.

LAKEWOOD, April 25.—Forest fires again swept along the line of the New Jersey Southern railroad.

FOREIGN.

Gladstone to form a Cabinet.

LONDON, April 23.—On the return of Gladstone to London he was met by Lord Granville, Lord Hartington, and Wolverton and W. P. Adams. Adams said Gladstone had undertaken to form a cabinet.

British Success in Afghanistan.

CABUL, April 23. General Stewart entered Ghieznee on Tuesday after a battle on Monday in which the Afghans lost more than a thousand men killed. General Stewart's loss was 17 men killed and 115 wounded.

Additional advices from Cabul represent that Gen. Stewart while marching twenty five miles south of Ghieznee encountered about fifteen thousand Afghans, and while he was preparing an attack upon them, three thousand of the enemy's horse rushed upon both his flanks of his lines. After one hour's desperate fighting, the enemy was beaten and the whole body dispersed over the country.

Montenegro's Final Success.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 23.—The porte has notified Montenegro that the cession of the territory will commence to day and finish the 25th. Some of the Catholic Albanians have already left the ceded territory. It is uncertain what will be the attitude of the Mahomedan Albanians.

Banquet to American Sailors.

QUEENSTOWN, April 23. The town will give a banquet to the officers of the American relief frigate Constellation. There was some opposition, as being inconsistent in a famine-stricken land.

Garfield's Public Life.

The following account of General Garfield's public life is taken from the sketch prepared by E. V. Smalley for the Philadelphia Times:

"In 1859, the college president was elected to the state senate from the counties of Portage and Summit. He did not resign his presidency, because he looked upon a few months in the legislature as an episode not likely to change the course of his life. But the war came to alter all his plans. During the winter of 1861, he was active in the passage of measures for arming the state militia, and his eloquence and energy made him a conspicuous leader of the union party. Early in the summer of 1861, he was elected colonel of an infantry regiment (the Forty second) raised in Northern Ohio, many of the soldiers in which had been students at Hiram. He took the field in Eastern Kentucky, and was soon put in command of a brigade, and by making one of the hardest marches ever made by recruits, surprised and routed the rebel forces, under Humphrey Marshall, at Piketon.

From Eastern Kentucky, General Garfield was transferred to Louisville, and, from that place, hastened to join the army of General Buell, which he reached with his brigade in time to participate in the second day's fighting at Pittsburg Landing. He took part in the seige of Corinth, and in the operations along the Memphis & Charleston Railroad. In January, 1863, he was appointed chief of staff of the Army of the Cumberland, and bore a prominent share in all the campaigns in Middle Tennessee in the spring and summer of that year. His last conspicuous military service was at the battle of Chickamauga. For his conduct in that battle, he was promoted to a major generalship.

The congressional district in which Garfield lived was the one long made famous by Joshua R. Giddings. The old anti slavery champion grew careless of the arts of politics toward the end of his career and came to look upon a nomination and re election as a matter of course. His over-confidence was taken advantage of in 1858 by an ambitious lawyer named Hutchins on carrying a convention against him. The friends of Giddings never forgave Hutchins and cast about for a means of defeating him. So his supporters made use of the popularity of General Garfield and nominated him while he was in the field without asking his consent. That was in 1862. I have often heard him express regret that he did not help fight the war through and say that he would never have left the army to go to congress had he foreseen that the struggle would continue beyond the year 1863. He continued his military service up to the time congress met.

On entering congress in December, 1863, General Garfield was placed upon the committee on military affairs, with Schenck and Farnsworth, who were also fresh from the field. He took an active part in the debates of the house and won a recognition which few new members succeeded in gaining. He was not popular among his fellow-members during his first term. They thought him something of a pedant because he sometimes showed his scholarship in his speeches and they were jealous of his prominence. His solid attainments and amiable social qualities enabled him to overcome this prejudice during his second term, and he became on terms of close friendship with the best men in both houses. His committee service during his second term was on the ways and means, which was quite to his taste, for it gave him an opportunity to prosecute the studies in finance and political economy which he had always felt a fondness for. He was a hard worker and a great reader in those days, going home with his arms full of books from the congressional library and sitting up late nights to read them. It was then that he laid the foundations of the convictions on the subject of national finance which he has since held to amid the storms of political agitation. He was renominated in 1864, without opposition, but in 1866 Mr. Hutchins, whom he had supplanted, made an effort to defeat him. Hutchins canvassed the district thoroughly, but the convention nominated Garfield by acclamation. He has had no opposition since in his own party. In 1872 the liberals and democrats united to beat him but his majority was larger than ever. In 1874 the greenbackers and democrats combined and put up a popular soldier against him, but they made no impression on the result. The Ashtabula district, as it is generally called, is the most faithful to its representatives of any in the north. It has had but four members in half a century.

In the Fortieth congress General Garfield was chairman of the committee on military affairs. In the Forty first he was given the chairmanship of banking and currency, which he liked much better, because it was in the line of his financial studies. His next promotion was to the chairmanship of the appropriations committee, which he held until the democrats came into power in the house in 1875. The chief work on that committee was a steady and judicious reduction of the expenses of the government. In all the political struggles in congress he has borne a leading part, his clear, vigorous and moderate style of argument making him one of the most effective debaters in either house.

When James G. Blaine went to the senate, in 1877, the mantle of republican leadership in the house was by common consent placed upon Garfield, and he has worn it ever since. In January last General Garfield was elected to the senate to the seat which will be vacated by Allen G. Thurman on the 4th of March, 1881. He received the unanimous vote of the republican caucus, an honor never given to any man of any party in the state of Ohio. Since his election he has been the recipient of many complimentary manifestations in Washington and in Ohio.

As a leader in the house he is more cautious and less dashing than Blaine, and his judicial turn of mind makes him too prone to look for two sides of a question for him to be an efficient partisan. When the issue fairly touches his convictions, however, he becomes thoroughly aroused and strikes tremendous blows. Blaine's tactics were to continually harass the enemy by sharp-shooting surprises and picket firing. Garfield waits for an opportunity to deliver a pitched battle, and his generalship is shown to best advantage when the fight is a fair one and waged on grounds where each party thinks itself strongest. Then his solid shot of argument are exceedingly effective. On the stump Garfield is one of the very best orators in the republican party. He has a good voice, an air of evident sincerity, great clearness and vigor of statement and a way of knitting his arguments together so as to make a speech deepen its impression on the mind of the hearer until the climax is reached.

REDUCING THE AVERAGE.

Some of the Common Worries of Stock Speculation.

An excitable little Frenchman was last evening complaining about his bad luck as a stock speculator. "I can not at all get zee reinotest insight into zee business. Long time ago one friend I say to me at Lady Byron is good speculation. I buy feefty shares of zee Lady for $1 zee share. She go down to feefty cent—I say to my friend: 'Now what shall I do?' You see zee Lady have advanced backward—like zee what you call crawfish.'

"My friend say to me: 'You must reduce your average.'

"'How is zat zing about reduce zee average,' say I to him, for I no understand what he mean by 'reduce zee average.'

"He say: 'You see, to reduce your average you must go buy feefty shares more at feefty cent, then your stock not stand in you so much money.'

"I go buy feefty shares more I reduce zee average, you see.

"My friend say to me: 'Now you all right to take advantage of zee market; you have your average reduce.'

"Well, pretty soon, what do you sink? Zee d—— Lady she crawfish to twenty five cent. I go to my friend and I say to him: 'You see how it is wiz zee Lady, she have tumble!'

"'I see,' said my friend; 'it is bad, but zee only way to get even is to again reduce zee average. Then you will be in one fine position to take advantage of zee market.'

"Diable!" says I; 'but you see, my friend, zee d—— market all time take advantage of me.' But I go get two hundred shares more of zee Lady at twenty-five cent.

"Pretty soon she go down to zee ten cent zee share. I go to my friend. 'What shall I now do?' say I.

"Zee only sing to get you even zat is possible to do is to again reduce zee average.

"'D—— zee average!' I remark, for you see I am begin to become inflame against zee average. But my friend pursuade me it is zee only way to get into zee position to take advantage of zee market wiz zee Lady. So I buy me four hundred more share at ten per cent., and say now I am ready for zee rise of ze market.

"Just now, what you sink? One assessment of fifty cent is level. I rush away to my friend and say: 'What now mus' I do?'

"'It is bad,' he say. 'I am afraid we have pay too much attention to zee plan of reducing zee average. We have leave zee assessment out of zee account.'

"I cannot pay him, so I let him go. Lose all zee Lady what I have produce to reduce zee average. Pretty soon the mine is salt and zee Lady boom to four tollar. Zen I say, 'Why have I not pay zee assessment?' Zee diable take take zee stock speculation! Between zee reduce, zee average and zee assessment zere is one conflict zat no man can have zee foresight to reconcile. Is it not so?"—Virginia City Enterprise.

Ruskin's Lecture About Snakes.

"Huxley," he said, "knows all about the inside of snakes, and I know something about the outside of them, and this is what I mean to talk about." And that was just what the lecture was—a "talk about" snakes; a chatty, easy, suggestive, brilliant succession of felicitous paragraphs about their names, colors, poisons, movements, peculiarities and mystical significances.

"A snake is a lizard that has drawn in its legs, a duck that has lost its wings, a fish that has dropped its fins, a honeysuckle that has taken on a head. I have placed a duck on a table for experiment, and whenever it was angered it opened its mouth, lowered its head and gave a low hiss, repeating every movement and tone of an enraged serpent. The attitudes assumed by serpents are prefigured by the forms of vegetation. Notice a cranberry vine which creeps along until it shoots up a stem which curves over to its flower, and you will see how like it is to the cobras there erect with curved necks. The Greek name for the snake was Opis, meaning a creature that sees. Dragon means the same. I have observed that St. George was always represented as without helmet when he went out to meet the Dragon. Since the Dragon was so keen of sight for him, it was important the saint should have no impediment whatever to seeing the Dragon.

"This Eel-pie island of ours does not yet know how an eel swims up a waterfall. Imagine yourself with your feet tied together and the whole of you tied up in a bag, trying to swim up a waterfall many times your own height. How does the eel manage it? God knows!

"The motion of a serpent when the whole of his force is put forth is a kind of skating on this side and that, the inside edges of himself being the ice. The snake whose bite is most fatal is that which the Portuguese call the 'Cobra of Death.' It is only three or four inches long; it goes by leaps, but this little pipe-stem creature has only to touch a man with his tooth and death surely follows in from a half hour to three or four hours.

"The poisonous serpent is a spectral procession of spotted death. Though 20,000 of the queen's subjects annually die of snake-bites, there is no full treatise in the English language on the poison of serpents. The upturned face of the rattlesnake has something human about it. The interest which has in every country invested these reptiles has been due to the fact that it has seemed a type of degraded humanity. It has an expression of human, not mere animal cunning and malice."

The Princess Alice's Betrothal.

After dinner, while talking to the gentlemen, I perceived Alice and Louis talking before the fireplace more earnestly than usual, and when I passed to go to the other room both came up to me, and Alice, in much agitation, said he had proposed to her, and he begged my blessing. I could only squeeze his hand and say, "Certainly," and that we should see him in our room later. Got through the evening working as well as we could. Alice came to our room, agitated but quiet. Albert sent for Louis to his room went first to him, and then called Alice and me in. Louis has a warm, noble heart. We embraced our dear Alice, and praised her much to him. He pressed and kissed my hand, and I embraced him. After talking a little we parted, a most touching and to me most sacred moment.—Young Queen Victoria's Diary.

English Campaign Humors.

In the Medical School of St. Bartholomew's Hospital placards were posted bearing the name of a secretary of a local conservative organization, asking for the names "all gentlemen who wish to join a party to attend liberal meetings throughout London during the next fortnight for the purpose of passing resolutions in favor of the government," an invitation to which it is likely that the "journeymen sawbones" responded gallantly, for we find that Mr. Herbert Gladstone in his canvass of Middlesex was interrupted constantly by opponents who made such a riot that the police had to be called in, while at the corn exchange the liberals were refused a hearing, and bombarded with coffee and beans, while a live cat was thrown at the orator of the occasion. In Lambeth the conservatives spoiled a liberal meeting, and when they met the liberals came down like the wolf on the fold and there was "serious fighting." At Ashton Mr. Mason, the liberal candidate, was stoned, his carriage wrecked and his coachman injured. At Melton Mowbray Lord John Manners was pelted with eggs filled with gas tar; a fight afterwards took place and Lord John had to retire." At Poole some enthusiastic liberal knocked the conservative candidate, Mr. Schreiber, senseless with a stone as his supporters were drawing him through the streets. At Derby there was a terrible scene of rioting and disorder. Mr. Collins, the conservative candidate, and his followers were driven out of the Corn Exchange hall with chairs and benches, the furniture, scenery and footlights were destroyed and all the windows smashed. At Portadown the conservatives broke into the home rule candidate's committee room and threw his managers "down a long flight of stairs and out into the street, where they were very roughly handled," and smashed the windows of his hotel. At Sheffield some 20,000 men assembled at a meeting in Paradise Square, and such a tumult was raised that "neither Mr. Mundella nor Mr. Waddy was able to speak more than a minute or two." At Bristol the platform was stormed with speakers, reporters and all driven out, and everything that could be smashed or torn up was destroyed. The only man who seemed to enjoy this sort of work was Sir Stafford Northcote, who, when speaking at Hackney, said that "his heart warmed at the sight of such a meeting. The scene reminded him of old times, when mee ing were a good deal livelier than at present, and removed his fears that after the abolition of open nominations and hustings speeches "an election would resemble a funeral." "I must say," he continued, "I do like a good stand-up fight, but not, he added, "without English fair play." As a dispatch recently told us that his meeting at Torquay was broken up and he was stoned on his way home under an escort, we infer that the Chancellor of the exchequer must be one of the happiest men in England to-day. Up in Scotland they are more peaceful, but unpopular candidates have had to stand a terrible ordeal of hissing, hooting, "booing" and other interruptions. At Tranent Lord Elcho, one of the ablest and most estimable of living Scotchmen, to whom England owes the volunteer system, spoke to an accompaniment of "groans," "Hurrah for Gladstone and Buchanan!" "The hare and the pheasant!" "What about the whale?" "Bow wow!" "Mew mew!" "Shut up!" Hooting and whistling, and when he coolly declared that he would be heard if he had to stay there till midnight, an intelligent chorus was raised, "It's too bad to keep Jemima waiting."

A Murderer's Toy House.

A man named Haines, who is now in jail at Rockland, in the state of Maine, for the terrible crime of murder, recently whittled out a pretty toy house. The house is about four feet high, four feet long and two feet deep. It is as nicely built as the best of real houses, with slate roof, fancy chimneys and all. It has two stories, the lower one containing a dining hall and kitchen, and the upper story a drawing room and chambers. The floor of the dining hall is inlaid with 1,020 separate pieces of cherry and mahogany wood. In the kitchen are hardwood tables with drawers in them, a roller for long towels, dishes and an old wooden lady, who wears spectacles and eyes the visitor suspiciously. She is the housekeeper, of course. The sets of furniture in the drawing room and chambers are very pretty. The floors of the upper rooms are all carpeted and a fire burning merrily behind the grate of the drawing room. By the marble fireplace is a rack, in which are brass shovels and tongs. The chairs are nicely made, being padded and covered. The house is a gem. A good-sized baby could live in it.

A Really Sensible Committee.

The committee on the judiciary, to whom was referred the query, "What should a colored man do if meeting a policeman at a late hour at night?" reported as follows: "We held fo' meetin's of de committee to discuss dis matter, an' we find dat we can't 'zactly agree. Samuel Shin am of de opinyun dat he would wheel to de left an' climb de fence; Ramrod Snyder says he would try to dodge him, an' Telegraph Jones finks he could cheek it frew all right. After lookin' at de case in all its b'arins de committee hev decided not to lay down any rule of axshun, kase dey can't tell how big de purleeceman is or what sort of a bundle de cull'd man may be takin' home." Lime Kiln Club Proceedings.

"Select" List
Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Select List of Local Newspapers.
Many persons suppose this list to be composed of CHEAP, low-priced newspapers. The fact is quite otherwise. The catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST. When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper. IT IS NOT A CO-OPERATIVE LIST. IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST. At the foot of the catalogue for each state the important towns which are not covered by the lists are enumerated. IT IS AN HONEST LIST.
An old advertiser writes: "I prefer the LOCAL LIST for the reason that, while but few persons in any particular town subscribe for a class medium (or large city weekly) nine out of ten subscribe for their local paper, and the tenth one borrows it from his neighbor."
An advertiser, who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $350 of it in this list, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."
The rates charged for advertising are but ONE-FIFTH the publishers' schedule. The price for single states ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $650. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $3,083.16. The list includes 977 newspapers, of which 193 are issued DAILY and 784 WEEKLY. They are located in 807 different cities and towns, of which 28 are state capitals, 371 places of over 5,000 population, and 485 county seats.

Eight thousand newspapers are kept regularly on file, open to the inspection of customers.
Every advertisement is taken at the home price of the paper, without any additional charge or commission.
An advertiser in dealing with the agency, is saved trouble and correspondence, making one contract instead of a dozen, a hundred or a thousand.
A book of 120 pages, containing lists of best papers, largest circulations, religious, agricultural, class, political, daily and county papers, and all publications which are especially valuable to advertisers, with some information about prices, is sent to any address on receipt of ten cents.
Persons at a distance wishing to make contracts for advertising in any town, city, county, state or territory of the United States, or any portion of the Dominion of Canada, may send a concise statement of what they want, together with a copy of the ADVERTISEMENT they desire inserted, and will receive, by return mail, an estimate of the cost.
For such information and estimate there is no charge.
Orders are taken for a single paper as well as for a list, for a single dollar as readily as for a larger sum.
Geo. P. Rowell & Co. also publish the American Newspaper Directory (price $5), in which will be found a complete list of all American newspapers, and a Gazetteer of the towns in which they are issued.

REPUBLICAN CALL.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
DENVER, Colorado, April 22, 1880

At a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee, held at this place Thursday, April 22, it was ordered that a state republican convention be held on Tuesday, the 25th day of May, 1880, at ten a. m., at Denver, Colorado, for the purpose of choosing delegates to cast the vote of the state at the national republican convention, to meet in Chicago, June 3, 1880.

The republican committees of the various counties are therefore requested to make, as soon as practicable, provisions for the election of delegates to a republican state convention at the time and place above mentioned.

Upon the basis of representation as fixed by the committee, the counties of the state are entitled to representation in the state convention as follows:

Counties	Delegates.	Counties.	Delegates.
Arapahoe	32	Huerfano	5
Bent	3	Jefferson	7
Boulder	13	Lake	34
Chaffee	9	La Plata	4
Clear Creek	15	Larimer	5
Conejos	6	Las Animas	8
Costilla	4	Ouray	7
Custer	13	Park	7
Douglas	4	Pueblo	7
Elbert	4	Rio Grande	4
El Paso	10	Routt	1
Fremont	8	Saguache	3
Gilpin	12	San Juan	4
Grand	3	Summit	10
Gunnison	7	Weld	7
Hinsdale	4

JOHN L. ROUTT,
Chairman.
HENRY WARD, Secretary.

Mr. Washburne appears to be the coming man. The Grant men all have him for a second choice. He can poll a bigger republican vote than any other republican candidate.

A gentleman in Jefferson county announces himself as a republican candidate for a local office, and the Transcript says he is a candidate "worthy of our steal." Does the Transcript expect to use the "Maine method?"

The estimate giving Grant 452 votes, on the first ballot claimed 12 votes from Georgia. It is more than probable that Grant will not get one of these. This vote on the balloting cry will not be more than 300 for Grant.

Hon. H. M. Teller and Governor Routt are prominently spoken of as delegates to the Chicago convention. Register Call.

This was thought of, but the idea was not popular in Denver Thursday. The objection to Senator Teller was that he could serve the state better in Washington than in Chicago. Besides there are plenty of gentlemen outside of our congressional delegation who are competent and willing to represent the party at Chicago. As to Governor Routt, he injured himself very much by not attending the meeting of the committee. The San Juan members also thought he delayed calling the committee together until too late a day.

MEETING OF THE STATE COMMITTEE.

The meeting of the republican state central committee in Denver on Thursday was a very harmonious and successful one. In the committee itself, the general feeling seemed to be in favor of nominating a candidate to win, and the personal preferences of its members were not publicly made known with a single exception. One canvass of the members of the committee present showed 10 for Grant, 6 for Blaine, 2 for Washburne, and three anti-Grant. But this indicates little regarding the personal preferences of the different counties, as at least one strong Blaine county was represented by a Grant-man.

The only matter of business that came before the committee which threatened its harmony was that of fixing the basis of representation in the coming convention. The demands of some counties were unreasonable and finally one gentleman suggested that the committee call a mass meeting instead of a convention to nominate delegates. The committee to which the whole matter was referred finally made a report, which was so liberal that it was not strongly opposed and was carried. El Paso has her representation based on the vote of 1878. This increases our delegation from 8 to 10, which is all that we are justly entitled to. Probably the report is as fair as it can be under the circumstances.

The rapid growth of cities like Leadville and Silver Cliff render it impossible to use any arbitrary rules in regard to the basis of representation. At first it was suggested to use the vote of 1879 for supreme judge as a basis, but this would have been unjust, because the election did not call forth the party strength and the lightness local and non partisan in its nature. Lake and Custer objected to fixing the vote of 1878 as a basis, because their counties have increased so much in population recently. When the population of the states becomes a little more fixed, the rule should be made that the representation of counties should be fixed by their vote at the next preceding election of governor.

During the meeting of the committee the friends of Grant were active and appeared to be organized. Their strength came from this source. It is evident that they will attempt to carry the coming convention for Grant delegates with or without instruction. Whether they will be successful depends entirely on whether the opposition to Grant's nomination be outspoken and felt. If it is, the convention cannot be carried for Grant. Many of those ostensibly for Grant have said their personal preferences were for Blaine, while their judgment said Washburne would be the strongest nominee. The Blaine movement seems to be engineered by Hon. W. A. Hamill, who is just entering on the campaign.

A Good Suggestion.

It is about time that General Sherman began to consider the propriety of abolishing the now useless military establishments at Leavenworth and Omaha, and uniting the Rocky Mountain regions into one grand department, with headquarters at Denver. The necessity for headquarters at these Missouri river villages has long since passed, and money will be saved, and the efficiency of the military service increased, by removing them to the chief city of Colorado. Denver Times.

An Old Time Democrat.

While General Grant has twice been elected president by the republican party, he never voted the republican ticket. He is an old time democrat and always voted the democratic ticket straight. As the democrats seem to be in some trouble about a candidate General Grant will no doubt gracefully accept the nomination of the Cincinnati convention on the 22d of June, after his acceptance at Chicago on the 3d of June. Memphis Avalanche.

Glory Enough.

Mr. Edmunds will never be president, although permitted to carry through life the proud consciousness that he has been inspected and branded "truly good" by the republicans of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. For a man reared hundreds of miles from Plymouth Rock, Bunker Hill and the Frog Pond, this is glory enough. Washington Post.

A Threat.

"A threat was made yesterday that the Colorado convention would be pushed through in New York and Pennsylvania style. It cannot be done, gentlemen. Every delegate with an opinion will be allowed to express it. This state is so young that it has utterly failed to outgrow a few crude, rough, frontier ideas it has in favor of fair play. Denver Tribune.

A Ticket to Win.

"Edmunds and Washburne would sweep the country like wildfire," the Hartford Courant thinks, but the Springfield Union says nobody wants the country swept that way. The Union is one of those calm, self-contained organs which support Grant and hate magnetism. Boston Herald.

Carried in Nobody's Pocket.

The republican party of Colorado is too large to be carried in anybody's pocket. Should there be a man with confidence enough in himself to attempt to stow it away in such a small space he will be very much astonished to see how many votes will spill out. Denver Tribune.

Secretary Sherman's Strength.

Secretary Sherman is positively stronger with the country to-day, than any other candidate whose name has been mentioned in connection with the Chicago convention. N. Y. Graphic.

Will They Obey.

It is believed that at least twenty-two of the seventy delegates to Chicago from New York, will refuse to obey the resolution instructing them to vote for General Grant. Georgetown Courier.

REDUCING THE AVERAGE

Some of the Common Worries of Stock Speculation

An excitable little Frenchman was last evening complaining about his bad luck as a stock speculator "I can not at all get zee remotest insight into zee business Long time ago one friend say to me zat Lady Byron is good speculation I buy feefty shares of zee Lady for $1 zee share He go do n to feefty cent I say to my friend— Now what shall I do? You see zee Lady have advanced backward—like zee what you call crawfish

'My friend say to me 'You must reduce your average'

How is zat zing about reduce zee average, say I to him for I no understand what he mean by redu e zee average

'He say You see to redu e your average you must go buy feefty shares more at feefty cent then your stock not stand in you so much money'

'I go buy feefty shares more—I reduce zee average, you see

My friend say to me 'Now you all right to take advantage of zee market you have your average reduce.'

'Well pretty soon what do you sink? Zee d Lady she crawfish to twenty five cent. I go to my friend and I say to him 'You see how it is wiz zee Lady, she have tumble!'

'I see,' said my friend 'it is bad, but zee only way to get even is to again reduce zee average Then you will be in one fine position to take advantage of zee market'

'Diable!' says I 'but you see,' my friend, zee d market all time take advantage of me.' But I go get two hundred shares more of zee Lady at twenty-five cent

"Pretty soon she go down to zee ten cent zee share I go to my friend. 'What shall I now do?' say I

'Zee only sing to get you even zat is possible to do is to again reduce zee average.

"'D zee average! I remark, for you see I am begin to become inflame against zee average But my friend pursuade me it is zee only way to get into zee position to take advantage of zee market wiz zee Lady. So I buy me four hundred more share at ten per cent, and say now I am ready for zee rise of ze market

Just now, what you sink? One assessment of fifty cent is level I rush away to my friend and say 'What now mus I do?

"'It is bad,' he say— 'I am afraid we have pay too much attention to zee plan of reducing zee average We have leave zee assessment out of zee account'

'I cannot pay him, so I let him go I ose all zee Lady what I have produce to reduce zee average. Pretty soon the mine is salt and zee Lady boo n to four tollar Zen I say, 'Why have I not pay zee assessment? Zee diable take take zee stock speculation! Between zee reduce, zee average and zee assessment zere is one conflict zat no man can have zee foresight to reconcile' Is it not so?' —Virginia City Enterprise

"Huxley," he said, "knows all about the inside of snakes, and I know something about the outside of them, and this is what I mean to talk about,' And that was just what the lecture was a "talk about snakes, a chatty, easy, suggestive, brilliant succession of felicitous paragraphs about their names, colors, poisons, movements, peculiarities and mystical significances

"A snake is a lizard that has drawn in its legs, a duck that has lost its wings, a fish that has dropped its fins, a honeysuckle that has taken on a head. I have placed a duck on a table for experiment, and whenever it was angered it opened its mouth, lowered its head and gave a low hiss, repeating every movement and tone of an enraged serpent The attitudes assumed by serpents are prefigured by the forms of vegetation. Notice a cranberry vine which creeps along until it shoots up a stem which curves over to its flower, and you will see how like it is to the cobras there erect with curved necks The Greek name for the snake was Opis, meaning a creature that sees Dragon means the same I have observed that St. George was always represented as without helmet when he went out to meet the Dragon. Since the Dragon was so keen of sight for him, it was important the saint should have no impediment whatever to seeing the Dragon.

"This 'Eel-pie island' of ours does not yet know how an eel swims up a waterfall, Imagine yourself with your feet tied together and the whole of you tied up in a bag, trying to swim up a waterfall many times your own height How does the eel manage it? God knows!

"The motion of a serpent when the whole of his force is put forth is a kind of skating on this side and that the inside edges himself being the ice The snake whose bite is most fatal is that which the Portuguese call the 'Cobra of Death' It is only three or four inches long; it goes by leaps, but this little pipe-stem creature has only to touch a man with his tooth and death surely follows in from a half hour to three or four hours

'The poisonous serpent is a spectral procession of spotted death. Though 20-000 of the queen's subjects annually die of snake bites, there is no full treatise in the English language on the poison of serpents The upturned face of the rattle-snake has something human about it The interest which has in every country invested these reptiles has been due to the fact that it has seemed a type of degraded humanity. It has an expression of human not mere animal cunning and malice'

The Princess Alice's Bethrothal

After dinner, while talking to the gentlemen I perceived Alice and Louis talking before the fireplace more earnestly than usual, and when I passed to go to the other room both came up to me, and Alice in much agitation said he had proposed to her, and he begged for my blessing I could only squeeze his hand and say, 'Certainly, and that we should see him in our room later. Got through the evening working as well as we could Alice came to our room, agitated but quiet; Albert sent for Louis to his room: went to him, and then called Alice and me in Louis has a warm noble heart We embraced our dear Alice and praised her much to him. He pressed and kissed my hand and I embraced him After talking a little we parted in most much uneasy and to me most sacred moment —From Queen Victoria's Diary

English Campaign Humors.

In the Medical School of St Bartholomew's Hospital placards were posted bearing the name of a secretary of a local conservative organization, asking for the names all gentlemen who wish to join a party to attend liberal meetings through the next fortnight for the purpose of passing resolutions in favor of the government an invitation to which it is likely that the 'journeymen sawbones' responded gallantly, for we find that Mr Herbert Gladstone in his canvass of Middlesex was interrupted constantly by opponents who made such a riot that the police had to be called in while at the corn exchange the liberals were refused a hearing, and bombarded with coffee and beans, while a live cat was thrown at the orator of the occasion In Lambeth the conservatives spoiled a liberal meeting and when they met the liberals came down like the wolf on the fold and there was serious fighting At Ashton Mr Mason the liberal candidate was stoned his carriage wrecken and his coachman injured At Melton Mowbray Lord John Manners was pelted with eggs filled with gas tar "a fight afterwards took place and Lord John had to retire At Poole some enthusiastic liberal knocked the conservative candidate Mr Schreiber, senseless with a stone as his supporters were drawing him through the streets At Derby there was 'a terrible scene of rioting and disorder, Mr Collins, the conservative candidate, and his followers were driven out of the Corn Exchange Hall with chairs and benches, the furniture, scenery and footlights were destroyed and all the windows smashed. At Portadown the conservatives broke into the home rule candidate s committee room and threw his managers down a long flight of stairs and out into the street where they were very roughly handled, and smashed the windows of his hotel. At Sheffield some 20 000 men assembled at a meeting in Paradise Square, and such a tumult was raised that neither Mr Mundella nor Mr Waddy was able to speak more than a minute or two At Bristol the platform was stormed with speakers, reporters and all driven out, and everything that could be smashed or torn up was destroyed. The only man who seemed to enjoy this sort of work was Sir Stafford Northcote, who, when speaking at Hackney, said that 'his heart warmed at the sight of such a meeting The scene—reminded him of old times, when mee ing were a good deal livelier than at present, and removed his fears that after the abolition of open nominations and hustings speeches an election would resemble a funeral "I must say,' he continued, "I do like a good stand-up fight but not he added, without English fair play." As a dispatch recently told us that his meeting at Torquay was broken up and he was stoned on his way home under an escort, we infer that the Chancellor of the exchequer must be one of the happiest men in England to day Up in Scotland they are more peaceful, but unpopular candidates have had to stand a terrible ordeal of hissing hooting, 'booing' and other interruptions At Tranent Lord Elcho, one of the ablest and most estimable of living Scotchmen, to whom England owes the volunteer system, spoke to an accompaniment of "groans," "Hurrah for Gladstone and Buchanan!" "The hare and the pheasant!" "What about the whale?' 'Bow wow 'Mew mew! 'Shut up' Hooting and whistling, and when he coolly declared that he would be heard if he had to stay there till midnight, an intelligent chorus was raised, "It's too bad to keep Jemima waiting"

A Murderer s Toy House

A man named Haines, who is now in jail at Rockland, in the state of Maine, for the terrible crime of murder, recently whittled out a pretty toy house. The house is about four feet high, four feet long and two feet deep. It is as nicely built as the best of real houses, with slate roof, fancy chimneys and all. It has two stories, the lower one containing a dining hall and kitchen, and the upper story a drawing room and chambers. The floor of the dining hall is inlaid with 1,020 separate pieces of cherry and mahogany wood, In the kitchen are hardwood tables with drawers in them, a roller for long towels, dishes and an old wooden lady, who wears spectacles and eyes the visitor suspiciously She is the housekeeper, of course. The sets of furniture in the drawing room and chambers are very pretty The floors of the upper rooms are all carpeted and a fire burning merrily behind the grate of the drawing room. By the marble fireplace is a rack, in which are brass shovels and tongs The chairs are nicely made, being padded and covered. The house is a gem. A good sized baby could live in it.

A Really Sensible Committee

The committee on the judiciary, to whom was referred the query, "What should a colored man do if meeting a policeman at a late hour at night?' reported as follows "We held fo' meetin's of de committee to discuss dis matter, an' we find dat we can t zactly agree. Samuel Shin am of de opinyun dat he would wheel to de left an' climb de fence, Ramrod Snyder says he would try to dodge him, an Telegraph Jones links he could cheek it frew all right After lookin' at de case in all its b arins de committee hev decided not to lay down any rule of axshun, kase dey can't tell how big de purleeceman is or what sort of a bundle de cull d man may be takin home Lime Kiln Club Proceedings

"Select List"

Geo P. Rowell & Co's Select List of Local Newspapers.

Many persons suppose this list to be composed of CHEAP low priced newspapers. The fact is quite otherwise The catalogue states exactly what the papers are When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the BEST When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper IT IS NOT A CO OPERATIVE LIST IT IS NOT A CHEAP LIST At the foot of the catalogue for each state the important towns which are not covered by the lists are enumerated IT IS AN HONEST LIST.

An old advertiser writes "I prefer the LOCAL LIST for the reason that, while but few persons in any particular town subscribe for a class medium (or large city weekly) nine out of ten subscribe for their local paper, and the tenth one borrows it from his neighbor"

An advertiser, who spends upwards of $5 000 a year, and who invested less than $350 of it in this list, writes "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

The rates charged for advertising are barely one fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single states ranges from $2 to $80 The price for a one-inch one month in the entire list is $650 The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $3,083 16 The list includes 977 newspapers, of which 193 are issued DAILY and 784 WEEKLY They are located in 807 different cities and towns, of which 28 are state capitals, 371 places of over 5,000 population, and 465 county seats.

This is a stall page [illegible] the latest [illegible]

Among the [illegible] will be found a [illegible] Crested Butte [illegible] Gunnison [illegible] [illegible]

Mr. F. M. D[illegible] is making some improvements in his store on Tejon street.

Messrs. Sessions & [illegible] [illegible] Tom Connelly's [illegible] make blenders.

The blacksmiths complain of a scarcity of good [illegible] in their line owing to the exodus to the Gunnison and other mining towns.

Don't forget that the [illegible] Comedy Company appears to-night in Court House Hall. Mr. Charles L. Davis is the author of the play of Alvin Joslin, and himself takes the title role.

We learn that Miss Frances E. Willard, the well known lecturer on temperance, will be in this city some time next week to address the people on temperance. Due notice as to time and place will be given.

The children of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school will give their regular monthly concert to-morrow evening in the church. The programme is a good one and the exercises will be especially interesting.

Mr. F. E. Dow let the contract yesterday for a residence to be built on Tejon street east of the Cascade Villas, to cost about $5,000. The contractor is Mr. J. G. Warner, who has recently arrived from Butler, Missouri.

Freights from Buena Vista are [illegible] at four cents per pound, with the prospect of a slight advance. About 150,000 pounds destined for Gunnison and Virginia cities are still held until the opening of Alpine pass, when it is expected that freight for the Gunnison can be hauled for two and a half cents per pound.

Miss Corinna Shattuck, a missionary from Turkey, will give a lecture on Turkey in the Congregational church, for the children, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. One of the boys and one of the girls of the Sunday School will be dressed in Turkish costumes. All the children are invited to attend, and each one is requested to bring five cents for the Pike's Peak Mission Band.

Mrs. Lucy H. Atherton, the wife of Mr. J. F. Atherton of the Colorado Springs hotel, died yesterday in this city of consumption. Mr. Atherton and his family will have the sincere sympathy of their large circle of friends. The funeral services will take place to-morrow afternoon at the Colorado Springs hotel at half past two o'clock. The friends of the family are invited to attend.

We regret to learn of the death yesterday of Ralph Herbert McMorris, the youngest child of T. A. McMorris, esq., of this city. He was not quite six years old at the time of his death, which was caused by scarlet fever. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. McMorris on North Nevada avenue. The friends of the family are invited to be present.

A Card.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church wish to express their thanks to all those who so kindly assisted in the entertainment given in behalf of that society on Tuesday evening last, and their sincere appreciation of the musical services rendered by Mr. Pearson and other friends who so cheerfully gave of their time and talent.

MRS. T. C. KIRKWOOD.

The Snow [illegible] Twelve Feet [illegible]

IRWIN, [illegible] — [illegible] visited with a [illegible] spring [illegible] winter [illegible]

The bright weather has induced some [illegible] the snow all winter. Among these are the Evening Star, Franklin, Republic, and [illegible]

Had the weather continued fine we might have [illegible] general [illegible] of work, but a change has come [illegible] Today we have a [illegible] snow and a temperature ranging [illegible]

The Forest Queen company having [illegible] of supplies are forced to suspend work for a time. Not having obtained possession of the [illegible] after winter had set they were not prepared for working. What was done during the past [illegible]

Sales of [illegible] and prospect holes continue. Anything [illegible] will sell at a great figure, and be taken on the owner's representation of worth [illegible] title, strengthened only by [illegible] corroboration of a few friends who would be pleased to see the buyer [illegible] make a raise.

Gunnison is at present the [illegible] which [illegible] of claims of [illegible] value, there being a [illegible] for the purpose of securing all undeveloped properties [illegible] for those whom they represent. A miner who has a prospect hole [illegible] has no trouble in securing a "grubstake" in Gunnison.

In the anxiety to secure the largest [illegible] number of claims last year, the required work was in many cases slighted. There are a large [illegible] These claims will be looked [illegible] some have already been relocated [illegible] considered [illegible] those purchasing claims, or having claims [illegible] there may be a question in regard to the required amount of work having been done, would better [illegible] their claims at once, before the snow settles [illegible]

The town of Silver Gate, one mile south of Irwin, was [illegible] last fall but no building done. For a time it was generally supposed Irwin had killed it, but it now appears that the proprietors have not extinguished their expectation of making Silver Gate the chief city of [illegible] mining district. C. C. Christopher is now on his way in with a sawmill which it is said will be devoted wholly to cutting lumber for the building of this town. The town site is much more extensive and eligible than that of Irwin. It is close to the anthracite coal beds, and when the D. & S. P. railway is built to it, it will be the [illegible] for all Ruby district. Everything [illegible] Ruby, or passing down Anthracite creek must necessarily [illegible] come through Silver Gate.

Town lots are lively in Crested Butte, and it is expected to make a good growth this year. It is the most desirable place of residence in, or adjacent to the Ruby mines, and an effort will be made to secure a large portion of the trade of this camp. Its position gives it control of the trade of all the Slate river mines. The town itself and the foothills adjoining are underlaid with large veins of [illegible] coal.

There is no telling when the road to Gunnison will be open: certainly not for a month yet. It may be that we shall not even able to get a burro through before that time. From present appearances, it is likely that the Coal Creek trail via Crested Butte will be opened by the [illegible] before the Ohio Creek road will be by shoveling and tramping.

By a record kept in Irwin of the depth of snow, measuring it as it fell, the fall for the winter has been above forty feet. Gunnison county is not without its oldest inhabitant. This oft referred to personage, in cases of supposed unusual freaks of the weather, lives with us, between this and Gunnison, and is probably as reliable and perfect in memory as in other places. The snowfall of the present winter, he says, has been five times greater than that of the average falls, and far exceeds that of any previous winter in his experience of seven years where he now lives. I think that there is no question but that we have had an unusual amount of snow.

The death of Mr. F. H. N. Patterson, the editor of the Georgetown Miner, has caused a universal feeling of regret. Mr. Patterson was widely known as an able and [illegible] editor and he held the [illegible] of all who knew him. The death of Mr. Patterson makes the third in the ranks of journalism in Colorado during the last six months. The first death was that of Major Rice, of The Trinidad Enterprise, then came the sad news of the demise of Mr. W. B. Vickers whose name is [illegible] intimately associated with that of the News and Tribune, of Denver, and last we learn that Mr. F. H. N. Patterson, of the Miner, has passed away. The universal sorrow at his loss is an earnest and sincere tribute to his worth.
